

For personal use only. Not to be reproduced without permission of the editor
(permissions@pharmj.org.uk)

FROM THE EDITOR

This edition of Tomorrow's Pharmacist is my last — I am taking my final bow as editor. I have had an enjoyable run over the past three years and this edition, our biggest yet, is a great one to go out on — a fitting finale. Again I have tried to keep the content appealing as well as informative. I hope some of the articles will inspire you to follow a certain career path or find out more about a particular topic in the future.

A booming voice announces (ok, yes it's mine) that the spotlight this year is on:

- "The final countdown" (p12) — good because it might get you through the Royal Pharmaceutical Society's registration examination — not to be scoffed at
- "After hours" (p24) — a guide for when you're on your first night shift in a hospital — alone and having kittens
- "Get on the production line" (p38) — one man's journey to becoming the chairman and founder (the big cheese basically) of a multi-million pound specials company
- "Brazil Dazzle" (p54) — Brazilians know how to do drugs
- "Chocolate: indulgence or medicine?" (p76) — we all know the answer, or do we?

There's also another competition this year (p83). The winners will be announced on www.pjonline.com after the closing date of 5 May.

It is now time for you to take to the stage. Get out there, all of you, and fulfil your desires!

All the best,

Gemma Cleveland
Editor

